COMPLETE TRANSPORTATION TIEUP WITH 20,000 MEN ON STRIKE IN CHICAGO

Strike is in Protest Against Wage Reduction and Return to Nine-Hour Day—Disorder Feared if Attempt is Made to Have Strikebreakers Run Cars.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Chicago's street and elevated railway lines were idle today in one of the most complete local transportation tie-ups in the history of the city.

Approximately 20,000 trainmen went on strike at 4 o'clock this morning bringing to a halt a situation that has been moving toward a walk-out for several weeks.

More than a million Chicagoans walked to work this morning or rode in trucks, private automobiles, taxicabs or subway trains or steam railroads. The strike also witnessed the reappearance on the streets of thousands of bicycles long fallen to disuse. The strike is in protest against wage reductions ordered by the traction companies and an effort by the companies to re-establish the nine-hour day.

Hardly had the cars stopped running when moves for a settlement of the controversy were under way. The state board of arbitration met to consider ways of bringing about an adjustment.

One of the most serious phases of the situation arose from the report that thousands of strike breakers already had been colonized in various sections of the city and were preparing to make attempts to operate cars. It was said that one of the best known directors of strike breakers in the country had assembled crews ready to take over operation of the cars whenever so ordered by traction officials.

Officials of the companies said that no attempt would be made to run cars for the present but declared that "cars must be operated sooner or later and it is necessary to take some steps to determine how this should be done."

Any attempt to run cars with non-union employees, it is considered certain, would be followed by serious outbreaks. It is understood that Illinois National Guard troops have been warned to be in readiness for service although no mobilization orders have been issued.

FORD KNOCKED CHEVROLET ON SIDEWALK MONDAY NIGHT

Monday night a Ford car and a Chevrolet collided at the intersection of Broadway, Prince and Dederick streets, and the Chevrolet was knocked upon the sidewalk by the force of the impact when struck by the Ford. The Chevrolet was driven by Valentine Cassidy and the Ford by George Farber. Both cars were badly damaged, but no one was hurt.

Demand Wreck Investigation.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 1.—Telegrams were dispatched to Governor Miller and to Chairman McCord of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington today by the central strike committee urging an immediate investigation of the freight wreck on the New York Central Lines near Newton Hook today which delayed all through trains from an hour to four hours, they assert. The strike committee, through its chairman, John J. Dowd, request that it be established whether the wreck was due to inadequate inspection of maintenance.

HARDING SUGGESTS TERMS FOR ENDING RAILROAD STRIKE

Pledge to Respect Decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, Withdraw Lawsuits and Permit All Employees, Whether They Struck or Not, to Keep Their Seniority Rights.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—President Harding's plan for settlement of the rail strike became known in its official detail here today just as the executive committee of the striking railroad shomps went into conference to determine their attitude towards the president's proposals.

In its essentials it proposes immediate return to work of the shomps with seniority rights unimpaired; rehearing by the United States Railway Labor Board of matters in controversy and agreement by the carriers and by the unions to recognize the validity of the labor board's decisions and to obey the board's rulings.

The text of the president's telegram to Jewell follows: "I am hereby conveying to you the terms of agreement upon which the railway managers and united shopcrafts workers are to unite preliminary to calling off the existing strike: "First, railway managers and workers are to agree to recognize the validity of all decisions of the railroad labor board and to faithful-

THREE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

New York Parties Tried to Negotiate Turn in Road at DeWitt's Mill While Traveling Too Fast—Injured Taken to Kingston City Hospital.

Two women and a baby were injured Monday afternoon when an automobile traveling at too fast a rate of speed tried to make the turn in the Rosendale road at DeWitt's Mill, near the old horse railroad bridge. As a result the fast traveling car shot up the side bank and turned completely over burying some of the occupants under it and hurling the others out. There were eight people packed into the car, which originally was built to carry about five.

Directly behind the wrecked car was F. A. Tigar, the local taxi driver, on his way back to Kingston. He immediately stopped his car and, with the help of other men who quickly gathered at the scene, lifted the car extricating those imprisoned under it.

Anna Segato of New York City, was the most seriously injured. She was pinned directly under the car. She lay flattened out in the road with the car resting on her back. It was thought at first that she was killed. The other injured woman was Isabel Pollon of Brooklyn. Both women were placed in Tigar's car and he rushed them to the Kingston City Hospital.

There it was found that the Segato woman was quite badly hurt. At the hospital this morning it was stated that she would recover. The Pollon woman was out about the face and bruised but left the hospital later after her wounds were dressed.

Another car brought the baby to the hospital. The infant was not badly hurt and was taken away by the Pollon woman when she left the institution that afternoon.

The others in the party were bruised and shaken up, but did not require medical attention.

Dublin, Aug. 1.—Prisoners captured by the Free State troops today said that Eamonn De Valera, chief of the Republican rebels, hopes to continue the guerrilla warfare until December. They declared that De Valera believes that if he can keep up hostilities until December, he will have prevented ratification of the Anglo-Irish peace treaty.

Forty Pilgrims Killed.

Paris, Aug. 1.—Forty religious pilgrims, bound for the famous shrine of the Grotto de Lourdes were killed today in a collision of two trains. Fifty-two others were injured. The disaster occurred near Tarbes. The shrine of Lourdes, a Catholic institution, is the most famous of its kind in the world and is daily visited by pilgrims from all parts of the world.

LEWIS CALLS JOINT CONFERENCE TO MEET MONDAY IN CLEVELAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—The following telegram was sent to the operating interests in the central competitive field by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today:

"In behalf of the United Mine Workers, I am, herewith, inviting the coal operators of the central competitive field to meet in joint interstate conference at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, at 10 o'clock Monday, August 7, 1922, for the purpose of negotiating a basic wage agreement designed to terminate the present suspension in the mining industry. I express the sincere hope that interests represented by you will find it possible to participate in the joint negotiations.

President of the United Mine Workers of America."

STRIKEBREAKERS ARRIVING HERE OPERATORS PLAN TO MEET MINERS

The largest consignment of strikebreakers to arrive for work at the Ulster and Delaware railroad shops came in Monday evening and were quartered for the night on one of the Cornell Line tugs berthed in the Rondout creek. There were thirty-four members in the party.

Since the car shop strike was inaugurated strikebreakers have been coming and going almost daily. Some were induced to "quit the job by pickets of the local union, and others quit because they did not receive the wages demanded. It is said that some of the strikebreakers wanted $3 a day to work.

This morning when inquiry was made at the U. & D. railroad offices as to the number of strikebreakers arriving it was stated that they had enough men to do the work, but the number was not made public.

Those passing the railroad yard this morning saw a number of the strikebreakers enjoying themselves playing ball. The majority of strikebreakers arriving here are young men.

Monday evening three automobile loads of strikebreakers were taken to the north yard of the West Shore railroad to work.

Both of the railroads are employing extra guards although no trouble is anticipated from the strikers here, but it was thought wise to take precautions.

ARSENIC FOUND IN CRUST OF PIE

New York, Aug. 1.—Arsenic in fatal quantities was discovered today in the crust of pie served in a Broadway restaurant near Twenty-sixth street, which has already caused two deaths and the illness of more than sixty others. The wholesale poison was traced to the restaurant in question. Huckleberry pie was suspected. Fragments were analyzed by chemists and the discovery of the arsenic followed. The police are now investigating to ascertain how the arsenic found its way into the pie.

$869.65 in Fines.

During the month of July there was collected and imposed fines and fees in city court amounting to $869.65, which amount has been turned over to the city treasurer by Judge Schirck.

Bud Fined $5.

Ivan Budd of Phillipsport was arrested Monday evening on a charge of public intoxication by Officer Hess. This morning in police court he was fined $5 which he paid.

Hiller Is Seriously Injured.

Ralph Hiller, son of J. A. Hiller of Old Hurley village, was very badly injured Monday, when he was crushed by the collapse of a wall of concrete on a reservoir. Dr. H. P. Van Wageningen of this city was called and found the young man had a fractured shoulder, some ribs broken and was suffering from internal injuries. His injuries are considered serious. The concrete had been poured on Friday last and Monday the reservoir wall fell in a mass as the forms were being removed by young Hiller, who was caught by the falling concrete.

X-Ray Is In Demand.

Dr. Harry P. Van Wageningen of John street went to Rhinebeck this morning where he made X-ray pictures of John C. Milroy, who was seriously hurt during an automobile accident a few days ago. Dr. Van Wageningen has the only portable X-ray machine along the Hudson river valley and now is able to take X-rays at the bedside of patients who are in such condition that they cannot be moved to a hospital or to where there is a machine. This will fill a long felt want in this section.

Traffic Cases.

Monday the following arrests for speeding were made: Isidore Tiger, Brooklyn; John J. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.; Peter C. Walls, Elizabeth; Sam Goldin, Brooklyn. All gave bail for their appearance later.

STRIKEBREAKER IN FLYING LEAP

Police Called to Kingston Point Park to Protect Strikebreakers Who Were Assaulted by Hoodlums—One Jumped Through the Dance Hall Window.

Monday evening shortly before 11 o'clock police headquarters received a riot call from Kingston Point Park to the effect that a gang of hoodlums had set upon some railroad strikebreakers and were beating them up. In response to the call Officers Fatum, Murphy, Aley and Leonard were hurried to the scene in the police car.

Evidently the hoodlums had overheard the riot call and they had disappeared when the officers arrived at the park. No arrests were made as none of the hoodlums could be identified. Saturday night one of the strikebreakers attended the dance at the Casino at Kingston Point, and suddenly a hoodlum yelled: "Hey, fellows, here's a strikebreaker," and a gang made for him. Rather than face the gang the strikebreaker leaped out of the window and made good his escape.

Acts of hoodlumism on the part of those who sympathize with the strikers will do more to affect the sympathies of the public than anything else. So far none of the strikers have personally taken part in any demonstrations but have been behaving themselves since they quit work.

The police have received strict orders to make arrests of any acting in a disorderly manner.

OPERATORS WILL NOT MEET MINERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association, dominant factor in the western Pennsylvania bituminous fields, this afternoon telegraphed John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' Association, today. He refused to say whether members of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association, which dominates operations in the western Pennsylvania field, would be represented at the Cleveland conference or not. "We have nothing to say and are going our way as before," he concluded.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 1.—"Indiana operators will not attend," declared Morton L. Gould, president of the Indiana Bituminous Operators' Association, when told today by International News Service of the invitation issued by John L. Lewis for a joint conference of coal operators and miners in the central competitive field.

Mr. Gould said that his "guess" was that not a single Indiana operator would attend the Cleveland meeting.

Columbus, O., Aug. 1.—"Our attitude has not changed since our Saturday meeting when we reaffirmed our decision to participate in any interstate conference, but would look to settlement of difficulties in a separate conference with the striking miners of southern Ohio," declared W. D. McKinney, Columbus, secretary of the Southern Ohio Coal Exchange.

Hillsboro, Ill., Aug. 1.—"I think it very doubtful that Illinois operators will attend the meeting called by Lewis," Rice Miller, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, said today.

Upon receipt of the invitation Miller declared he would call an operators' meeting in Chicago to act upon it, but he was certain the operators would refuse to attend the conference.

TEN KILLED IN TRAIN COLLISION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 1.—Ten persons were killed and twenty-five injured more or less seriously at 11 o'clock this morning when two Cincinnati, Lebanon and Northern passenger trains crashed together head-on, at the Lester road crossing in Pleasant Ridge.

One of the engines was driven backward telescoping the first coach behind it and killing everyone inside. All available fire apparatus in the city had been rushed to the scene as well as police patrols and hospital ambulances from all the hospitals. Fifty automobiles are also on the scene assisting in the rescue work.

Doctors from all over Cincinnati are rushing to the spot. There were five passenger coaches in one train and two in the other but only one car telescoped when the crash came. This coach crumpled up like a match box and the occupants were caught in the wreckage, which presented an almost hopeless tangle to rescuers. It is thought the engineers and firemen of the two engines were killed in the collision though information at this time regarding them was not available.

Bottomley Expelled.

London, Aug. 1.—Horatio Bottomley, former editor of the anti-American paper "John Bull," was expelled from the House of Commons this afternoon because of his recent conviction on the charge of stealing funds from the Victory Bond Club, which he had organized.

HOOVER PRESENTS HARDING'S PEACE PLAN TO RAILROAD EXECUTIVES

Recess Taken After Short Morning Session, Without Any Action Being Taken—Sentiment Opposed to Settlement on Terms Proposed by the President, But "Someone Has to Give Up Some Time."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 1.—President Harding's plan for adjustment of the railway shomps' strike was presented to the presidents of the 148 railroads of the country here this afternoon by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce.

Admitted to the great, high-ceilinged board room of the New Haven railroad in the Grand Central terminal building after the executives had been in session a bare half hour, the secretary is understood to have spent twenty minutes in an outline of the Harding formula for strike settlement.

A burst of applause greeted the conclusion of Hoover's brief business-like talk. He left the boardroom immediately.

A few minutes later, at 12:35, the executives themselves came out.

It was announced that no decision had been reached and that the executives are to resume their session this afternoon to debate the president's proposals.

Robert S. Binkerd, assistant to T. DeWitt Cuyler of the Association of Railway Executives, announced that the context of the president's proposals had been disclosed at the meeting but would not be issued to the press until the reply had been drafted. No action was taken, he said, and no speculation on probable action would be forthcoming in advance of the afternoon meeting.

The rail presidents departed for the Yale Club to luncheon and were expected to reassemble at about 2 o'clock.

Binkerd said the terms as carried by International News Service from Chicago were "substantially correct." The rail chiefs departed for luncheon unaware that the opposing camp had made public the secret which they were guarding so carefully.

New York, Aug. 1.—Shrouded by a smoke screen of "stand pat" propaganda and totally unresponsive to the many "peace kites" down from Washington, Chicago, Cincinnati and other points, the presidents of the nation's 148 railroads met in secret conclave here today to hear President Harding's ideas on settlement of the railway shomps' strike.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, appeared at the meeting of the nation's rail executives shortly after noon and was admitted to the New Haven board room, where the presidents were in session by a side door.

He thus avoided a small army of newspaper men camped in an outer room and in the hallway.

The impression was that he would outline the president's position to the railway executives. T. DeWitt Cuyler, president of the standing committee which met prior to the general meeting of the entire group of 148 railway presidents, Cuyler presented to his committee President Harding's plan for ending the strike and then, after giving it brief attention, the session was merged into that of the general committee.

The talk of the railroad camp was decidedly "no surrender."

The executives had disavowed, one by one, every peace formula that had appeared in print since the president intervened. According to their spokesmen these published settlement plans are simply kites flown by peace-makers. They were sent up to be shot at. The proceeding, they declare, is similar to the "peace feelers" pronouncements that preceded the armistice in the great war.

Some contend that there exists a deliberate attempt on the part of government agencies to give the appearance of approaching peace in order to "put the screws on" the railroads and force upon them the onus of continuing the labor war, should the executives reject the president's proposals.

As the transportation chiefs of a hundred million people assembled in a single room, the board room of the New Haven Railroad at the Grand Central Terminal building, they knew that the executives of the east, while avoiding closing the door officially to peace, were unofficially, strongly on record. These had declared themselves verbally yesterday at the Metropolitan Club against surrender on the seniority issue, and some compromise upon it by either or both sides must be the foundation of peace.

It was reported that they had found that the western and southern districts, with improving traffic conditions, were adopting a position of more nearly approximate "stand pat" attitude reported in the east.

Under the placid surface of the situation, behind the picture of scores of well-groomed, aggressive-faced rail magnates assembling so casually to rule on an issue affecting millions, there is reported today a growing bitterness among the rank and file. This, it is said, affects the strikers on the one side and particularly the vast supervisory staffs on the other.

"The railroads today must choose between their old employees, now on strike, and their staffs of trained supervisors in many cases," one railroad man told International News Service.

"It has come just to that. Why, one railroad operated for several days without a shop employee beyond the supervisors' staff. In many instances these staffs have been proved to be of more vital importance to a railroad than its entire corps of shop mechanics. Having undergone incalculable sacrifices because the shopmen went out, these men threaten re-avail if the strikers are taken back through any surrender on the part of the executives."

Reports to railway headquarters also indicate that many of the shopmen have gone to work on road building projects and are otherwise fighting for their existence as common laborers at half their former wage. This is heavy and painful work for a machinist and tempers are said not to have been improved by the necessity for doing it.

Through all the bombardment of uncompromising statements, the executives have, nevertheless, been careful not to slam the door in the president's face. Even the railway managers know that late afternoon may tell a different story than that indicated by a survey of the factors of the deadlock this morning.

None of the men questioned today will admit seeing a way out. The rail magnates have nailed their colors to the mast very strongly on the obvious point of compromise.

"But," said one spokesman for the rail chiefs, "you know how strikes are settled."

"Someone has to give up something."

The actual deliberations of the railway presidents gathered here to consider President Harding's plan to end the rail strike were kept secret today, but one rail head, whose name for obvious reasons cannot be mentioned quite frankly said to an International News Service correspondent:

"President Harding's plan calls for the restoration of all seniority rights to the strikers. That would place the strikers on the same basis with the loyal men who have remained in our service and that of the general public."

"Frankly, that is where the hitch comes. There is only one thing to do with such a proposal—reject it."

"I believe that it will be rejected because the entire principle of private management for the public welfare is at stake. If we cannot reward those who are faithful to us and our patrons—the one hundred and ten million American citizens—how can we expect to maintain our roads in the future if a similar crisis ever arises?"

"Not only are we fighting for the present, but we are planning for the future."

This same informant stated, as he went into the general session, that the latter will be governed by no hard and fast rules. It will probably, he explained, be a free for all "talkfest" which may end quite suddenly with an old-fashioned rising vote to either accept or reject President Harding's plan.

TANNERSVILLE "GUIDE"

WORKS FOR MODERATE FEE.

The following advertisement appears in the Tannersville Times-Record, this week, in the cent-a-word column:

"Mayor Hylan of New York city was born here at Tannersville. Would you care to see his home? If so, Reddy-to-Wurk, Hunter, will act as guide. Tel. 77-R1. 12 to 1 p.m. Rate $35 per person."

Reddy-to-Wurk, the guide, must hold down another job as his leisure time to devote to pointing out Hizonner's residence or home is only the noon hour. Then, too, he is not a profiteer as he ought easily obtain at least $1 from each summer boarder at Tannersville instead of a paltry $35 devoting his nooning to showing them where their chief city magistrate was born.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

YOUR SON, A PIONEER

Practically every one, even in the thinly settled districts, is familiar with the boy scout movement. Your son probably knows scouts as the fellows who wear a snappy uniform, go on camping trips and have all sorts of hikes, songs and jolly games together.

On your part, you may recall how they helped handle the traffic congestion at the last county fair, or how they assisted in fighting that disastrous forest fire.

That boy of yours! He is one of the most valuable assets you possess, isn't he? He looks at you with the clear eyes of youth; but he will soon have developed into sturdy manhood. His hungry young mind reaches out greedily for food. Is it being fed on cheap sensationalism or on glorious ideas? Your boy can feel himself one with the pioneer heroes of his country's history; with Kit Carson blazing a trail through the forest, with Daniel Boone trapping foxes in the wilderness, with Abraham Lincoln, splitting rails. Your boy can become a pioneer scout.

A pioneer scout wears the uniform of the Boy Scouts of America. He studies all the fascinating details of scoutcraft as described in the Boy Scouts' Handbook. He learns the scout salute, the scout sign, the scout oath. He acquires the necessary knowledge, takes the various tests, and wins the promotions, awards and merit badges. How these things appeal to a boy's romantic heart you can appreciate only by looking back into your own childhood. Think how you would have enjoyed being a scout!

Scouting is one of the greatest moral and educational forces operating for boys today. In addition to the scout oath—a simple promise such as your boy gives his mother, that he will do his best to do his duty to God and his country, and to obey the scout law, to help other people at all times, to keep himself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight—there is the scout law. This embodies 12 simple principles that make for right living and strong character.

The educational element of scouting is no less important. The mass of useful information about indoor and outdoor occupations that the boy acquires is surprising. All this he learns by doing—the easiest, most delightful way possible, and yet the most efficient. He follows the scout program as a fascinating game, unaware of the sound principles on which it is based.

If your boy is a clean, alert young fellow, the kind who develops into the red-blooded, vigorous citizen that has made America the power she is today; if you feel that he is missing something of the advantages that boys in larger communities take as a matter of course, and if you want him to develop his reserve powers to the fullest extent, then write to the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City. They will be glad to send you full information about pioneer scouting, and the opportunity that awaits your boy.

COURT OF HONOR RECORD

The record of the boy scouts in life-saving is an impressive tribute to the native heroism of the boy and to the training which enables him to make this spirit count. Up to 1922 only 12 gold medals, 120 silver and 400 bronze have been awarded to scouts by their national court of honor. A new medal has been designed and henceforth will be the only medal awarded by the scout organization. Hitherto there have been several medals, the bestowal of which involved difficulties of grading which were found too intricate. A new form of application for a life-saving award has also been adopted. The application blanks place responsibility for the gathering of data upon the local court of honor and require that the service rendered "be not only courageous and efficient, but shall involve actual risk to the rescuer." When a rescue has been accomplished without risk letters of commendation will be awarded. During the last year the old system of graded awards was in effect. Under this system only three gold medals were bestowed.

At the corner stone laying the scouts had charge of the flag ceremony, having first led the congregation from the old building to the new for the occasion.

Thought Of A Middle-Aged Guy.

I think of the janes of the nineties and sigh; I'm a middle-aged guy.

Eloquence is wasted on ignorance. At a critical time Mirabeau captured a turbulent assembly with a sentence. He said:

"I know it is but a step from the Capitol to the Tarpeian rock." This is sublime, but one must know history to understand it.

"Why, what's going on up at your house?" asked the storekeeper. "Somebody sick?"

INDIANA MINES
WILL OPERATE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 1.—Indiana will be the second state in the union to attempt to mine coal with non-union miners under state protection. Governor Warren T. McCray announced today after officials of District No. 11 of the United Mine Workers refused to authorize return to work of sufficient union miners to insure coal for state institutions.

The governor disregarded prospects of national settlement of the mine strike held out in the proposed joint conference in Cleveland next Monday, because he has repeatedly been told that the Indiana operators will not enter such a conference.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 1.—Charles Abramson, a former cook, was arrested this afternoon on the charge of homicide in connection with the death of three persons and the serious illness of more than 60 others from eating huckleberry pie charged with arsenic. The pie was served in the restaurant at 1127 Broadway where Abramson was formerly employed. He was discharged last Saturday and before leaving made up a large batch of pastry dough which later was baked into pies. Two of the dead are women; the third is a man. TAXI ORDINANCE
CONSTITUTIONAL?

Attorney Chris J. Flanagan Says It Is Not and Will Test It Out in Higher Court—His Client, Mones, Fined $5 for Violating Ordinance.

Is the city's taxi ordinance constitutional or not? According to Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, attorney for Max Mones, a local taxi driver, the ordinance is not, and he is going to test the matter out in a higher court. In the meantime Mones paid the $5 imposed by Judge Schirick in police court after hearing the evidence produced at the trial of the case today.

Some time ago the common council adopted an ordinance establishing cab stands in the city, and making any taxi driver who solicited trade while standing more than five feet from his car. There have been a number of arrests made for violation of the ordinance and invariably the violator has paid a fine.

Recently two taxi drivers were arrested for violating the ordinance at Kingston Point Park. At that time it was brought out that the trolley road had abolished the taxi stand established in the park last summer when the city ran the amusement resort.

Judge Schirick discharged both taxi men at that time and the matter was taken up with the trolley road to re-establish the taxi stand which has been done.

The other day Max Mones was arrested by John Q. Smith, superintendent of the park, for soliciting trade while standing more than five feet away from the taxi stand. The hearing was adjourned until Monday when Mones was represented by Attorney Flanagan, while Judge W. D. Brinnier appeared for the trolley road company.

Judge Schirick stated that he had not the power or authority to pass upon the question of the legality of the ordinance as that was a question to be decided in the higher court. It is expected that the matter will be taken to the supreme court for a decision by Mr. Mones.

Oats had a dull session and held within limited range. Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 higher; corn was 3/4 to 1c higher and oats unchanged to 3/4 lower.

ALL OF POISONED HUNDRED
HAD EATEN HUCKLEBERRY PIE

Friday beginning at 12 noon.
New York, Aug. 1.—Police and health officials who today probed the cause of the most remarkable case of wholesale poisoning the city has known in many months believed they had traced the ptomaine which caused 100 cases of acute illness in a single office building to huckleberry pie.

Employees working in the Townsend building on Broadway late yesterday began complaining with the deadly regularity of a line of troops in No Man's Land.

The first ambulance surgeon to arrive sent a call for all available physicians of the neighborhood. Stomach pumps were used and the building became an emergency hospital.

Many were taken to hospitals but all were sent home except two, whose conditions were found to be serious.

The source of the ptomaine is not conclusively determined, but questioning revealed that all the victims had eaten their lunches at a restaurant in the building and all seemed to have had huckleberry pie in common.

Dr. J. L. Preston a former resident of this city died at Pasadena, California, Saturday, July 29. His funeral was held on Monday. The cause of death was cancer of the throat. A telegram announcing the death of Dr. Preston was received from Frank Rider by Weston H. Rider his cousin on Monday. Frank Rider and Dr. Preston married sisters named Lord.

The funeral of Miss Mary Bridge was held from her late residence at Sleightsburgh on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The service was in charge of the Rev. W. H. Moser, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. P. C. Weyant, a former pastor of Trinity, who spoke in high terms of the character of the deceased. The service was largely attended by the friends and relatives of the young lady. The interment was in the Port Ewen Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas F. Murphy was held Saturday from her late residence at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from St. Mary's Church where a solemn Mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of her soul by the Rev. George Fagan, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Hickey, a deacon and the Rev. Bernard Riordan as sub deacon. The funeral cortege was very large and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. The bearers were Thomas Jordan, Nicholas Hartman, Patrick Dooley, Frank Motrie, Thomas Ward and Joseph Costello. During the Mass the chancel choir repeated the responses and Miss Gertrude Hanley sang "Savior I Come." Dean Hickey accompanied the remains to St. Mary's Cemetery where he conducted the committal services.

The funeral of the late Joseph P. Kenny was held this morning from his late residence in Port Ewen at 9:30 o'clock and from the Church of the Presentation at 10 o'clock, where a Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Dr. Saunders, pastor of the church. During the Mass the student quartet from Mount St. Alphonsus Seminary at Esopus sang the responses. The attendance at the church was large and the floral tributes, surrounding the remains spoke very highly of the respect in which he was held. The honorary pall bearers were members of the Knights of Columbus and the Elks of which the deceased was a member. John Mahoney, Patrick Kilroy, James Molenaar, Michael Broaders, Thomas Murray and Frank O'Toole. The acting members were Thomas Tucker, Daniel See, William Keane, Peter Flynn, Thomas McNellis and Patrick Hines. Father Sanderson accompanied the remains to St. Mary's Cemetery and conducted the committal services.

Not Burying Perhaps.
No woman is so simple as to order a funeral without considering the cost.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUGUST 1, 1922.

The prediction is made that coal will be higher after the strike. Of course, the consumer alone has no rights and is always made to pay the costs.

Governor Miller has refused, and with good reason, to pardon a murderer because of his youth. As he says, there are too many of them. Some of the most atrocious murders of recent years were committed by men under 21 and mere youths are becoming criminals at a rate hitherto unapproached.

American military men are said to wear "rather long faces" in these days of coal and railroad strikes because the United States army is being steadily reduced and there are only 25,000 regulars of the infantry branch in the country. Even that few could do quite a little if ordered, but the indications are that they will not be ordered.

Automobile thieves are more than ever successfully active. The National Automobile Dealers' Association has published a report showing that during 1921 in 28 cities alone 27,554 machines were stolen, many of which were recovered. It is thought that a report for the whole country would show 100,000 thefts, with a possible loss of nearly a hundred millions.

The selection of Elihu Root for temporary chairman of the Republican state convention, to be held in Albany September 27, 28 and 29, means that the people will have opportunity to hear or to read a great speech. Mr. Root is accepted as a great statesman and a great lawyer, and his greatness is conceded abroad as well as at home.

A year ago it took 78 German marks to equal a dollar; now it takes about 600. A year ago it took 700 Austrian crowns to equal a dollar; today it takes nearly 34,000. The Austrian crown is now about as worthless as the Russian ruble was a year ago. Austria has mounted, and Germany promises soon to mount, the toboggan for the financial abyss into which Russia has been engulfed.

Miss Daly, Non-Partisan League candidate for Governor of South Dakota, wishing to come to President Harding's aid in those days of perplexity, has telegraphed him urging that "the Government take over the coal mines and railroads and pay the strikers the wages they demand." An easy solution—but for the staggering costs and endless "involvements."

TAMMANY CONTROLS

While Democrats are at loggerheads relative to a candidate to head their State ticket, Republicans and up-state voters can think of what would happen were any of those nominated whose names have been mentioned. Without any serious inventory it would develop very quickly that no matter who it was Tammany would control the convention, and Tammany would control the candidate if he were elected. Tammany controls the Democratic party. In fact "controls" is hardly the word; it owns the Democratic party.

Those who want to see decent government continued should not find it difficult to determine what would follow were Tammany to have the upper hand in State affairs. Tammany had some Governors in recent years, Dix, Sulzer and Glynn, and then came Smith. What occurred during the eight years of Tammany in Albany is well remembered. Tax bills told the story in such convincing terms that discussion is unnecessary. There was a riot of Extravagance in the State, as there always has been in the administration of New York city affairs. It was spend, spend some more and take a chance on meeting the bills.

Besides the extravagance of a Tammany administration, the effect of Tammany, as to public affairs, is deadly. Tammany has no love for up-state, it never had and it never will have. Tammany looks upon up-state as a community of have-nothings in which there is no ability and in which Tammany can get no support. Tammany does not know the needs of upstate, particularly the farming districts, or it would never have suggested to fix the price of milk, which would have ruined the dairy business, nor would it have forced the daylight saving law, both measures being an attack on the farming people.

While the battle is on relative to the Democratic candidate for Governor, the people can think over a few things which took place under Tammany. But it will make no difference who Tammany nominates, Tammany cannot win in the State this fall.

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. As trees have quantities of seeds each year, why do we see so few seedling trees growing around their roots?
2. How many eggs do turtles lay?
3. Do bald eagles always have the white head?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How soon does an evergreen tree begin to grow cones? Cones may be grown before the tree really matures, but they will not contain fertile seed, in most species until the tree is from 30 to 40 years old. Conditions vary in tree-growth so greatly that it is hard to give any reliable statement as to age for bearing. White pine has cones at 20 years, but fertile seed not before 35 to 40 years, and then only when grown in the open. Grown in close stands, it requires longer to mature. The loblolly pine, on the contrary, bears fertile seed at ten years.

2. Have we any native pheasants? The wild turkey is counted a member of the pheasant family. Of actual pheasants we have only species introduced from China. The ring-necked is commonest and easily established here as a wild bird. The English pheasant (itself originally introduced from the Orient) is also bred here, and looks like the ring-necked, but lacks the ring. Under the auspices of the Audubon Society some encouraging experiments have been made in breeding pheasants in semi-captivity.

3. Are sharks any use? The flesh of some species is edible but it seems almost impossible to teach ordinary humans to buy it. During the late war there was an attempt at a great food and conservation show in New York city to introduce canned shark, by offering it in salads, etc. It was not unpalatable. We never heard of the success of the introduction. Formerly the rough hide of shark was used by cabinet makers in place of sand paper. Sharks kill many edible fishes.

SUPERVISORS TAKE ACTION TO HAVE WILLOW ROAD BUILT.

Thirty-one members of the board of supervisors answered roll call at a special session of the county legislature held Monday evening at their rooms in the court house. The business transacted was the rescinding of a resolution adopted December 16, 1906, appropriating $45,000 for the construction of the Beardsville-Willow road, a county highway, and the adopting of a resolution for the same piece of road, a distance of 3.50 miles, and appropriating $71,435, being the county's share as the highway law prescribes, the state to pay $12,665.

A communication was read from the town board of Woodstock stating that at a recent election the voters of the town had voted favorably for the expenditure of $20,000 for the construction of three bridges necessary on the Beardsville-Willow highway improvement. In connection with the above, Supervisor Sagendorf introduced an act authorizing the town of Woodstock to borrow money for the construction of the three bridges and issue 5 per cent bonds in the sum of $20,000, the money arising from the sale of which the expenditure is to meet.

With Supervisor Chester Young in the chair, the board went into committee of the whole, the bill was read by sections and there being no amendments the committee arose and the chair reported that the bill had been favorably acted upon to Chairman Fratscher, who advanced the bill in the order of its third reading.

On motion of Supervisor Chester Young, the board then adjourned until Tuesday evening, August 1, at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time.

August 1, 1902—Edward Burke of Whiteport went suddenly insane in court house.

Hotel of John Forbes at Port Ewen destroyed by fire.

August 1, 1912—Henry J. Penny died at his home on Abrun street.

"Whitey" Lewis, wanted in connection with murder of Herman Rosenthal in New York, arrested at Fleischmanns.

Chamber of Commerce held clam bake at Lake Katrine.

Can't Doctor Stumps. Boring holes in stumps and filling them with saltpeter or something else to hasten decay is a waste of time according to the foresters of the State Agricultural college at Ithaca, N. Y. The holes do give added surface for nature's destructive agents to work on, but only digging, chopping, burning, or blowing out will quickly dispose of stumps that can't wait for the slow process of decay.

SCHOOL TAX COLLECTION BEGUN

The collection of the 1922 school tax began at the city treasurer's office today and will continue without a break for a period of thirty days, after which 2 per cent fees will be added for a period of twenty days, and then 5 per cent fees for a period of thirty days with an additional charge of one dollar for notice.

The school tax rate for Kingston this year is $10.20 per 1,000, which is forty cents less than the school tax rate a year ago.

Cornelius Hume, formerly cashier of the Kingston National Bank, which was succeeded by the Kingston Trust Company, will assist at the city treasurer's office in the collection of the school tax.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, Aug. 1.—The Rev. Charles A. Dann, of the M. E. Church, with his family, will take the month of August for a vacation. The pulpit will be supplied by the Rev. G. H. Smith of Ellenville for morning services during his absence.

Hobson, of St. John's Church, has been induced to take charge of the local work and will have the assistance of a committee.

MILTON.

Milton, July 31.—The Misses Christine and Teresa Kensler of New York city have been recent guests at Riverview, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lugar on Sands avenue.

Frank Lugar visited relatives at New York city, Sag Harbor and Centre Moriches, L. I., last week. The Fruit Exchange crate factory has been obliged to shut down on account of the lack of coal. This is the factory's busiest time of the season and when the demand for fruit packages is the heaviest.

The annual fair of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church was held last Friday evening on the church grounds. Advance Lodge band of Marlborough furnished the music for the evening. $300 was the amount realized from the sales made at the fair.

The Tonawanda Circus held at St. James's park last Tuesday evening by the Maids' and Matrons' Society was a great success. There was a very large attendance and everybody thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. The children went through their part of the program in an admirable manner. The trained bears, kittens, pony and clowns brought forth much applause as did also little Miss Bradt in her graceful dancing. The music was furnished by Hugo Boddingtonhaus, piano; P. V. Bunker, drum; and Arthur Nolan, banjo. Peanuts, pop corn, ice cream cones and lemonade were sold in large quantities. For an entertainment of this kind which was gotten up in but one week we would say it was the best we have attended here in a long time.

Something should be done to the road known as Coffin's Hill at the south end of Sands avenue, which is in a deplorable condition. The heavy rains have washed deep gulches in the road and being as it is on one of the handsomest streets of our village it is a shame and a disgrace to the community to allow it to be in such a condition. There has been nothing done to improve the condition of this road in some time by the road commissioner.

Harry Lawton and family visited relatives at Central Valley last Sunday.

Isaac Forster, Jr., has accepted a position with the Auto Sales Company at Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. Forster was formerly a member of the firm Forster Brothers, who conducted Forster's Garage at Main and Church streets. Isaac Forster, Sr., and son John, are now in charge of the garage.

'HAM' ACTOR TYPE HAS DISAPPEARED

Once Spent Its Summers Along the Rialto in New York.

FREE LUNCH WAS LIFESAVER

Tragedian Who Knew Shakespeare
by Heart From Cover to Cover and Drew $30 a Week Now on Movie
"Lola"—He Always Wore His Ham
Conspicuously and You Couldn't Blame Him for They Frequently
Covered the Lack of a Clean Shirt.

He was of proud and haughty mien with a nose red and bulbous at the end. He stalked, in Booth's best Richard III manner, up to "Pop" Caldwell, seneschal of the inner works of The Music Box in Forty-fifth street, says the New York Times, and announced in sonorous, resonant tones, "I would have speech with Mr. Caldwell."

Hands on hips, tread thrown back, one foot and leg advanced, he glowered at "Pop" like a hungry ogre deprived of a snack. He wore a full-skirted, bellying Prince Albert frock coat, green and shiny with age, dappled with glistening spots and with buttons missing here and there. Sticking through one sleeve was an elbow resembling the breastbone of a lean turkey. His frayed trousers bottoms seemed to be racing each other to see which first would get over the tops of split shoes whose uppers gaped above cracked soles. An ancient silk hat, moth-eaten and unheeded, perched like a scuttled ship atop a shock of black hair, showing rusty brown streaks where the dye had worn off, whose ends draped a grimy celluloid collar. Attached to its front was a shredded neckcloth spot mottled like the coat.

Rising from the collar was a lean, stringy neck and a face of tight-drawn skin, old and seamed. But the eyes were full of fire, and all of Shakespeare's tragic protagonists were embodied in the grandiloquent pose—Othello, Hamlet, Lear, Macbeth, Richard III, Shylock.

"Pop" left him there and went to William Collier's dressing room.

"There's a ham outside for you, Mr. Collier," he said.

"Boil it and bring it in," replied Collier.

"It's already pickled," returned "Pop." "Take a look."

Collier descended a few steps and looked around a jog.

"Pop," that's a "nifty," he whispered. "Send it to Solly Ward. Here give him this and show him off." He slipped a bill into "Pop's" hand.

The Last of the Breed.

"Must be one of the last of the breed of 'ham actors' or 'hamfatters,'" explained "Pop" as the rumble of an expostulating voice floated up the stairs, mingled with "Pop's" staccato "Nuthin' more do'n, git along."

"Ten years ago this time of year they were thicker on Broadway than taxicabs are now. Origin of the term 'ham actor' or 'hamfatter'? I've heard several versions. The most likely two are those which ascribe the birth of the type meant always played, or were trying to play, Hamlet, and when too low in funds to get cold cream with which to remove their make-up used essence of cooked pig.

"When the Rialto was the Rialto, when every corner was a listening post for a group of actors attendant on the triumphant rental of some just-in-from-the-road trouper, the 'hamfatter' was in his glory. He was always an actor, always in character, always strutting and striding and straddling. If he always wore his laurels conspicuously you couldn't blame him, for they frequently covered the lack of a clean shirt. He gave a continuous performance along Broadway from Weber and Field's Music hall at Twenty-ninth street to Hammerstein's furthest north Victoria at Forty-second.

"Broadway was his summer resort—and his were long summers, from June to September. New York had no summer theater season in his heyday. He came back from tramping, from all the points of the compass, with nothing saved except the clothes he stood in and unbreakable faith—his seeming conceit, I believe, at bottom was faith—in his own abilities and the big engagement that was coming in the fall.

Wore Winter Clothes in July.

"He sweated beneath winter clothes in the July sun and held his conclave on the theater and plays of the future beneath the shade of store awnings until the proprietors, not looking on him as a trade-pulling attraction, drove him away. He discovered, long ago, that the stage and actors were degenerating and his forthrightness were just as gloomy as those of our young intellectuals of criticism are today. Summer furs were not fashionable then, but many a 'leading lady' wore them if she could afford to keep them in her own hands. His wardrobe was the 'hamfatter's' bank account, his liquid asset, and the pawnbroker kept it beyond reach of mirth for him. All through the summer months the royal robes of kings and queens and the court costumes of dynasties lay in dark recesses, issuing forth in the fall when the fortunate actor got advance on the first week's salary of an engagement.

"The 'ham' had no bachelor apartment, no hotel room, such as is boasted now by our stage fortune-tellers. The actors' boarding house, with its hall bedrooms—there used to be rows of them in the side streets between Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth—was his retreat for sleeping, if he had cash or credit, and how, he could stretch that credit: if he had neither, only he himself knew when and where he slept. There was no Equity then to make sure that no legitimate actor should go hungry, nor was the actors' fund sufficiently strong to assure him of a place to lay his head. But there were free lunches and beer!

Disliked the Box Office.

"Between his saunterings and chats along Broadway and his visits to the cafes he followed the trails leading to the offices of the managers and booking agents, always hopeful, impervious to rebuffs, indifference and waits. They gave him ample opportunity for the recounting of his histrionic abilities—words which sounded sweet in his own ears, even though they bored the producer, and afforded him later when he met his cronies full chance to pour the vials of his wrath on the business end of the theater. For the box office he had naught but contempt, a distaste fed on many a tour by its disappearance, with all it contained, including the manager.

"The 'hams' were divided into several classes, those who aspired to and actually played in legitimate drama—the real trouper—musical show 'hams,' burlesque 'hams,' and vaudeville 'hams.' But he, whom we associate with silk hat, frock coat, long hair and gaiters was of the first named type and the one whose portrait first comes to mind when we think of the 'ham' actor. And despite those ludicrous attitudes and postures, his conceit and efforts to attract attention to himself on any and all occasions, this kind of actor had a pride in his calling never surpassed and not so frequently equaled in our own day.

"With all his magnificence of manner, he was not above distributing show bills in small town saloons and burber shops. He cherished his character wig as a mother cherishes her children. And he knew Shakespeare Shakespeare was his God. Blank verse was meat and drink to him. How many of our present generation of actors know by heart one of Shakespeare's tragedies or comedies? Our 'ham' actor, with his $30 a week salary, knew them all. He rarely experienced the comforts of long engagements in the big cities and a few weeks on Broadway was a glimpse of Heaven. He spent the greater part of his time on trains, but he gave the best there was in him to the audience of the 'sticks' and the one-night stands and his lingo or Cassius was just as faithful to his conception of the part on a Mississippi river steamboat as it was in Union Square.

His Good Qualities.

"It is the fashion of our wise youth of today, in art, letters and the stage, to decry the works of their predecessors of other generations. Speaking for the stage, and knowing both the older and the younger generations of its players, having done my bit with both of them, I say that the players of our day could copy to advantage much of that which they affect to decry in those whom, judged by their dress and mannerisms, they would dub 'hamfatters.' The mere ability to wear clothes and dance well did not make an actor worthy of his buskins twenty years ago.

"Where are these 'hamfatters' now? you ask. Where do they hide themselves or what do they do for a livelihood, if they are still alive? Well, it will give you something of a jolt when I tell you that most of those still able to be active are playing types in the movies. Think of it, the man who worshipped Shakespeare, who looked with contempt on Pinero, Henry Arthur Jones, Clyde Fitch and Bronson Howard, earning his living in pie-comedy. But that is all there is left for them. That was no fictional picture that Harry Leon Wilson drew in 'Merton of the Movies' of the old tragedian who bemoaned the fate that had driven him to service on the 'lot.' I saw many of them on the coast in my own brief experience with the silver sheet, and they were a pitiable crowd.

"Nevertheless, even there, while despising themselves, their surroundings and the travesties and 'mockeries' of true illusion they were called on to enact before the camera, they proved themselves better screen actors, better mimics than many of the stars who were drawing salaries in four figures to their two."

Sept. there was no Equity then to make sure that no legitimate actor should go hungry, nor was the actors' fund sufficiently strong to assure him of a place to lay his head. But there were free lunches and beer!

"The 'hams' were divided into several classes, those who aspired to and actually played in legitimate drama—the real trouper—musical show 'hams,' burlesque 'hams,' and vaudeville 'hams.' But he, whom we associate with silk hat, frock coat, long hair and gaiters was of the first named type and the one whose portrait first comes to mind when we think of the 'ham' actor. And despite those ludicrous attitudes and postures, his conceit and efforts to attract attention to himself on any and all occasions, this kind of actor had a pride in his calling never surpassed and not so frequently equaled in our own day.

"With all his magnificence of manner, he was not above distributing show bills in small town saloons and burber shops. He cherished his character wig as a mother cherishes her children. And he knew Shakespeare Shakespeare was his God. Blank verse was meat and drink to him. How many of our present generation of actors know by heart one of Shakespeare's tragedies or comedies? Our 'ham' actor, with his $30 a week salary, knew them all. He rarely experienced the comforts of long engagements in the big cities and a few weeks on Broadway was a glimpse of Heaven. He spent the greater part of his time on trains, but he gave the best there was in him to the audience of the 'sticks' and the one-night stands and his lingo or Cassius was just as faithful to his conception of the part on a Mississippi river steamboat as it was in Union Square.

His Good Qualities.

"It is the fashion of our wise youth of today, in art, letters and the stage, to decry the works of their predecessors of other generations. Speaking for the stage, and knowing both the older and the younger generations of its players, having done my bit with both of them, I say that the players of our day could copy to advantage much of that which they affect to decry in those whom, judged by their dress and mannerisms, they would dub 'hamfatters.' The mere ability to wear clothes and dance well did not make an actor worthy of his buskins twenty years ago.

"Where are these 'hamfatters' now? you ask. Where do they hide themselves or what do they do for a livelihood, if they are still alive? Well, it will give you something of a jolt when I tell you that most of those still able to be active are playing types in the movies. Think of it, the man who worshipped Shakespeare, who looked with contempt on Pinero, Henry Arthur Jones, Clyde Fitch and Bronson Howard, earning his living in pie-comedy. But that is all there is left for them. That was no fictional picture that Harry Leon Wilson drew in 'Merton of the Movies' of the old tragedian who bemoaned the fate that had driven him to service on the 'lot.' I saw many of them on the coast in my own brief experience with the silver sheet, and they were a pitiable crowd.

"Nevertheless, even there, while despising themselves, their surroundings and the travesties and 'mockeries' of true illusion they were called on to enact before the camera, they proved themselves better screen actors, better mimics than many of the stars who were drawing salaries in four figures to their two."

Sept. there was no Equity then to make sure that no legitimate actor should go hungry, nor was the actors' fund sufficiently strong to assure him of a place to lay his head. But there were free lunches and beer!

Disliked the Box Office.

"Between his saunterings and chats along Broadway and his visits to the cafes he followed the trails leading to the offices of the managers and booking agents, always hopeful, impervious to rebuffs, indifference and waits. They gave him ample opportunity for the recounting of his histrionic abilities—words which sounded sweet in his own ears, even though they bored the producer, and afforded him later when he met his cronies full chance to pour the vials of his wrath on the business end of the theater. For the box office he had naught but contempt, a distaste fed on many a tour by its disappearance, with all it contained, including the manager.

Segal Defeats Cross

Nate Segal of Boston, who knocked out Vince Coffey in the fourth round in their bout at Albany last week, defeated Al Cross of Syracuse in eleven rounds of their main bout before the Collar City athletic club at Troy, Monday night. In the opinion of the majority of the newspaper writers at the ring-side but the decision of the judges as announced from the ring was that the pair had fought to a draw. It was Segal's fight from the beginning to end according to the newspaper scribes, but the judges couldn't see it that way. Segal did everything but knock Cross out, but the Syracuse boy won the sympathy of the crowd by his gameness.

HUGE DIRIGIBLE NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION

ZR-1 Will Have Seventy Miles of Piano Wire Stays and Braces—To Be 700 Feet Long.

The ZR-1, the next addition to the American dirigible fleet, is being built at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J. It is expected that the keel will be laid within a few weeks and that the ship will be ready for trial flights in about a year.

The ZR-1 will be 700 feet long, 85 feet in diameter, with a gas capacity of 2,700,000 cubic feet. Its total lifting capacity will be 85 tons, with 2,100 horse power supplied by seven Liberty motors. It will have a cruising speed of 50 miles an hour, a top speed of 75 miles an hour, and a cruising radius of 9,000 miles without refueling.

The quarters for the crew will be in the keelway, which will extend the length of the ship, eight feet wide and seven feet high. Propellers are to be equipped with reversing gears to enable the ship to check her speed or move backward. The ZR-1 will have a communicating system of telegraph, ship telephone and voice tubes, also a radio set with a sending radius of 200 miles.

The structural strength of the ZR-1 will be supplied by 70 miles of piano wire used as stays and braces and 30 miles of duralumin channel section. Every step in the construction of the ship is being checked by experts, as it is determined that the ZR-1 will show no structural weaknesses such as resulted in the destruction of the R-38, ordered built by the navy in England, which buckled on a trial flight with great loss to British and American flying personnel.

A mooring mast, which will hold the new dirigible and which is said to be the last word in this type of construction, has already been completed. It has an elevator running the 180 feet to the top and the platform will hold the dozen men necessary to hitch the giant airship fast to the mast.

DOG FIGHTS HOGS

Collie Saves His Master Who Had Been Attacked by Swine.

Several brood sows weighing from 600 to 700 pounds each, locked in a hog house, attacked J. Franzen, a farmer who resides north of Randolph, Neb., one morning, downed him, almost scalped him, tore his jaws and mangled his face. It was learned here, hearing his master's agonized shrieks, a Scotch collie jumped over several fences and through a partially opened window of the hoghouse and saved Franzen's life.

Franzen went to the hoghouse to look after the swine. While he was leaning over one of the big sows rushed at him, knocking him down and then started tearing at his face. Other hogs joined in the attack and Franzen was powerless. One hog tore open his scalp and another gashed his face in a horrible manner. His chin and jaws were torn and he cried out with pain.

Suddenly the collie jumped through the window and attacked the enraged animals, biting them and rushing between his master and attacking the hogs.

With the aid of the dog, Franzen managed to crawl from the hoghouse to safety.

Doctor Kerley was called and found Franzen in a very badly mangled condition. He says the farmer will recover and gives all credit to the dog for saving his life.

MYSTERY MONK WOULD FARM

Blador desires to buy a farm and settle in the United States, where he can carry on literary work. He has a wife and two children in Russia. The police say that if he is denied permission to enter the United States he will be returned to Russia.

Magnified Trifles

Trifles that amount to little are too frequently magnified and these which really should receive attention are ignored. This is because too many men and women lack ability properly to estimate the value of things. Ability to appraise is at a premium nowadays.

We absolutely refuse to carry over any merchandise from one season to another. No matter at what sacrifice to us everything in the store must go to make room for new Fall goods. Although George Gavan Duffy has resigned as Foreign Minister of the Irish Provisional Government, of Michael Collins, delaying the new Dail meeting and generally instigating a new political crisis in Ireland, he still endorses the military policy against the Irish Republicans, thus depriving De Valera of the chance of making political capital of his resignation.

O'Reilly Gets the Contract

The contract to furnish the paper supply to the schools of this city for the years 1922-23 has been awarded to William O'Reilly, the stationer at 530-532 Broadway. When the bids were submitted a few weeks ago no contract was then awarded as the board desired the supply committee, to whom the matter was referred with power, to have the different samples of paper submitted by the various bidders analyzed. This has been done and as the samples sent by Mr. O'Reilly were declared as meeting specifications, he has been awarded the contract.

Schneider Claims Car

The owner of the Studebaker car, that was found at Quarryville some time ago by Saugerties Police Captain Richter, came to Saugerties on Saturday with an insurance adjuster and returned to the city with his car. The owner of the car gave his name as Adolph Schneider of New York city. He stated that the car was stolen in front of his home and that the car was equipped with a bumper, spot light, side glass shields and an extra tire, all of which were removed from the car when abandoned.

Hudson Hospital Overcrowded

The ideal week end brought many tourists to the upper part of the state and the highways were almost blocked, especially on Sunday. Naturally the crowded thoroughfare resulted in many accidents and the hospitals and garages had a lively day. In the vicinity of Hudson no less than fifteen accidents occurred and the Hudson hospital was so crowded that the county authorities took care of some of the injured.

This is a specially posed photograph of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, in full regalia, in the midst of an initiation ceremony at Homestead Pa. The flaming cross in the center lighted the pages of an open Bible, flanked on each side by American flags. The initiated wore handkerchiefs over their faces.

Lord Ashtfield, Baron of Southwell, began life as Albert Henry Stanley and was well known in New York and Detroit and throughout the various American traction circles. As a youth he was stable boy in the Detroit Street Railways, in the days of horse cars. Promotion was rapid, and he eventually became superintendent. Years later he went to London as Director of Underground Railways and in 1913 became a British subject. In 1914 he was knighted by King George, and now he is a peer.

Jugo-Slav Lads Have Opportunity To Put Down Gun and Wield Hoe

Up to the signing of the armistice it seemed to those picturesquely dressed boys of Jugo-Slavia that life was just one war after another, for during the preceding eight or nine years each service old enough to endure military duty. Now they are finding the advantages of peace and are making the most of them. With nine tenths of the people of Jugo-Slavia engaged in agriculture, in normal times, peace has brought definite economic results. Proof is found in the report of the Ministry of Agriculture of Jugo-Slavia which shows that the agriculture exports for 1921 were double those for 1920. And the government is leaving no stone unturned to encourage even greater development along this line. American capital and genius has recently been called in by Jugo-Slavia in the construction of a 1200 mile railway system which will open up the Adriatic ports of Split and Kotar (formerly Spalato and Cattaro) for the export of the vast wealth of the grain fields, orchards and forests of the interior. The Government has awarded contracts also which will link up narrow gauge lines to supplement the greater system.

The completion of these transportation facilities will open up opportunities for mining interests to develop a variety of mineral deposits which are unequalled in Europe, according to H. I. Smith of Denver, Colo. An American expert who served with an advisory staff from this country which made a survey of these resources. As yet these huge sources of wealth have been barely touched, but one of the greatest copper mines of all Europe has been developed.

Miss Anne Burnett, of Fort Worth, Texas, has been left $15,000,000 under the terms of the will of her grandfather, Burk Burnett, pioneer cattleman, of Texas. Already a millionaire, Mr. Burnett's fortune was increased many millions dollars when oil was discovered on the hundreds of thousands of acres he owned, and the town of Burk Burnett, Texas, in the heart of the oil region, was named for him.

Crew of the Army Blimp C-2
